

The internet is perhaps the only domain of true freedom: freedom of expression and, equally important, freedom of opportunity. The web is the most level of playing fields that exists. Any restrictions should be minimal and in place only to prevent disaster. Furthermore, corporate interests should have no influence whatsoever on any policies.

Title 2 status is the only way to prevent ISP's from destroying the freedom of opportunity that exists online.